As to the membership of the club, it is difficult to make an accurate statement at this time, owing to the fact that affairs are still in a somewhat formative condition. There are, within a radius of seventy-five miles of Chicago, two hundred and ten Pi Beta Phis, whose names and addresses are known to the club, all of whom are, according to the constitution, eligible to membership. For the sake of having, in permanent form, these names and addresses, which have been gathered at different times at the expense of considerable time and effort, they have all been included in a directory of the club published by the executive committee, the names of those who have expressed their willingness to join, about one hundred in all, being marked with an asterisk. Of the two hundred and ten, some have stated positively that they have no interest in the organization, while others have not responded in any way to the notices sent them; and, among the one hundred, who have expressed a wish to become members, there are some who have not yet signed the constitution and paid their annual dues. The average attendance at the meetings has been about fifty-five, the first one being possibly the best attended, when covers were laid at the luncheon for seventy. In summing up the first year s existence of the club, then, the work accomplished has been largely preliminary working out of a...
